Dear Graydon,

Our communication with the Westrock geologists out in the field is mission critical to our day to day business operations. Our clients depend on us for secure, reliable communication and well site reporting. We were having some serious issues in providing and secure remote communication to field geologists without the proper in-house network infrastructure. With the 24/7 service provided we have complete confidence in providing reliable service to all of our field geologists.

We realize the customized Global Edge hosted email solution using MS Exchange and SSL Webmail hosted on your servers has saved us time and money over the two years. Field geologists can now access their email from any mobile device with Internet connections including iPhones.

I would like to personally thank you for Global Edge's dedication to the issues that were in front of us at Westrock Geology over the last two years. You have and continue to provide us with remarkable IT service and support.

Sincerely ,

Wes Barrett
